THIS IS IMPORTANT TO YOU!

THE HIGHER COST OF RAW MATERIALS.

PRICES of carpet wools have risen steadily for several months past, and are still advancing. Carpet yarns have advanced about 10 per cent. during the past six months and a further advance of 5 per cent. is likely in the near future. It therefore seems probable that manufacturers of carpets and rugs must make material advances in their new price lists for the coming trade season. TAFT'S FOREIGN POLICY APPLAUDED

Knox's Campaign Statement Approves Present Rule.

Reasons Set Forth Why President Should be Retained in Office.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A political statement by Secretary Knox, setting out reasons why Taft should be re-elected, was made public here today. Mr. Knox is now with the President in New England, and it is understood that his statement was prepared before leaving Washington.

The Secretary in his statement applauded the President's foreign policy, laying special stress on the maximum and minimum feature of the tariff program and declared that "in the field of striving for world peace President Taft's name must be written very high." He referred especially to the arbitration treaties negotiated with Great Britain and France and to the administration interference to prevent war and bloodshed in Central America.

"These more idealistic phases of our diplomacy," said Secretary Knox, "should, I think, make special appeal. The materialistic appeal to all our industries and producers of every sort who share in the prosperity of the country is too evident further to dwell upon."

In extolling the foreign policy of the administration Mr. Knox dwelt on the "very real relation" that he said existed between such a policy and the prosperity of the American wage earner.

Secretary Knox reviews at some length the achievements of the State Department in the interest of American commerce. "American financial houses have entered the South and Central American field and the administration has sought to co-ordinate its national policy with its commercial diplomacy to the end, not only that American trade shall be extended but that peace and prosperity shall be brought to those of the sister republics that are in domestic difficulties.

"For more than two years Mexico has been the scene of revolutions and disorder, imposing a severe strain at times upon good relations between the two countries. The pressure for intervention has been great. Temporary political advantage might have been won during the present campaign by a more spectacular attitude toward the Mexican situation, but the President has, with unswerving determination, set his face against anything smarting of utilizing our foreign policy in a Democratic campaign.

"The United States has demonstrat-

VERA CRUZ REGAINS NORMAL ASPECT.

Roads and Wires at Mexico City Being Repaired.

Spies Denouncing to Officials Everybody Concerned in Rebellion.

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 24.—The city is rapidly regaining its normal aspect. The police service was resumed today and within two days the railroad will be operating again on a regular schedule. The telegraph wires have also been fixed between here and Mexico City.

Further details of the taking of the city by the federal troops show that they marched in headed by General Joaquin Beltran and his staff and Colonels Figerca, Vogal, Zozaya and Tapia. The entire government forces numbered less than 2,000 men.

Colonel Jiminez Castro of the federal army, while marching at the head of his column, met a force of rebels who were led by Eduardo Cuesta, the chief of police, and Enrique Delgarde, the military judge. The volunteers fired and wounded Colonel Castro, who fired back and killed both of the leaders.

Two hours after the city had fallen into the hands of the federal troops Colonel Tapia with a small body of men defeated a rebel outpost in a southern suburb.

In the meantime Colonel Jose Diaz Ordaz and most of the other rebel officers had escaped. Only nine of them were captured with Felix Diaz, among them being Major Zarate and Captain Mayon.

The defeated rebels now say they did not oppose the federal troops, as they thought they were coming into the city to join them. General Felix Diaz, they say, told them this morning that spies are denouncing to the authorities everybody concerned in the rebellion.

FIRE AT WATCH HILL.

Summer Home of Mrs. Anderson of Cincinnati Destroyed.

WESTERLY, Oct. 24.—"Dolmar," the summer home of Mrs. William P. Anderson of Cincinnati, at Watch Hill, was burned to the ground early today, by a fire which threatened several other cottages in the vicinity. The house was valued at $10,000 and insured for $7,000. The fire was discovered by a beach patrol from the life saving station.

BECKER'S CASE TURNS ON SCHEPPS.

Judge Goff Charges Against Conviction on Other Evidence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Justice Goff charged the jury in the Becker case today, in a speech lasting more than three hours. He ruled in substance that the conviction or acquittal of the police lieutenant for the murder of Herman Rosenthal rested almost solely on the question of whether Sam Schepps was an accomplice. He was in doubt himself, on this point, he said, and therefore declined to instruct the jury. He said that Rose, Webber and Vallon were accomplices, and that upon their testimony Becker could not be convicted of murder in the first degree, even though the evidence showed that he had instigated the murder.

Becker sat unmoved while the charge was delivered. Justice Goff began speaking at 10:40 o'clock and finished at 1:50. The jury at once retired.

Becker sat in court throughout yesterday afternoon with almost immobile countenance, and heard himself characterized by Assistant District Attorney Moss as "the brains behind the gun men, with a tremendous motive for murder." Mr. Moss warmly resented the implication that Mr. Whitman had any other motive than duty for seeking the conviction of Becker, and denounced the "vilification of counsel for the defense" as revealing the "desperate straits to which he has come."

"If Becker did not have a motive for the murder, why did he want to get an affidavit from Rose two days after Rosenthal was dead?" Mr. Moss asked. "The truth is Becker did not know how things would go. He saw the possibility that Rose might be a witness against him and he got an affidavit from Rose to silence him. He got Rose to swear his own life away, so that he couldn't testify against him in this case."

Mr. Moss declared that the defense had dwelt throughout the trial upon an alleged conspiracy to murder Rosenthal, "founded on the hatred of the underworld," as its explanation for the murder, but had not introduced a shred of proof that any such conspiracy had existed.

A quarter of an hour before court convened the jurors filed into the box. District Attorney Whitman entered the room a few moments later. The

ROGERS SCORES AGAIN.

Defeats Rhode Island School of Design, 32 to 0, In Heavy Rain.

Visitors Show Grit All the Way Through in an Unequal Football Contest.

In a steady downpour of rain Wednesday afternoon the Rogers High School football team added another victory to its list, defeating Rhode Island School of Design, 32 to 0. There was nothing to it, so far as Rogers was concerned, as the visitors' line was like paper and the secondary defense could do little to stop the Rogers rushes, especially when the home team's regular line-up was in the game. On the offense the Providence team made first down but once, in the last part of the fourth period, the only time the Rogers goal line was in danger. The School of Design team showed grit all the way through, besides coming to Newport with the knowledge that defeat was almost certain to be their portion.

The Rogers boys thought they were playing in difficulties in the rain at Danvers last Saturday, but that was nothing compared to Wednesday's, which came down so heavily at times that faces were turned away from it. Although there was not a large crowd present, the majority remained to the end, showing their interest. Since the recent agitation about athletics at the school, more enthusiasm than ever has been aroused, and there were indications of a record-breaking gathering but for the rain.

Dr. DeBlois, the Rogers head coach, tried out some of the players in new positions. Captain Jemail went to end, but was not in the game very long, and A. Sullivan, who has played guard and tackle, went to the other end. Gamache was tried behind the line, and two new players were given their first try-outs, Brown at centre and Fletcher at tackle. Twenty-two different men were sent in by Dr. DeBlois.

As in the other three games, Rogers started the contest with a rush and the first touchdown was scored in a very few minutes. Cottrell kicked off, but as the visitors were unable to gain at all in three downs they punted. Rogers then started in. M. Jemail first went five yards around the end, and Hoar tore off 12 through the line. On the 40-yard line Knox took the ball, skirted the end and with perfect interference made the first touchdown. M. Jemail kicked the goal.

The second came even more easily. Cottrell again kicked off, but a fumble of the kick-off by one of the visitors gave M. Jemail an opportunity to secure the ball, and he took it. The first play was a criss-cross to M. Jemail, who went 35 yards for the second score, but failed in the try for goal.

Dr. DeBlois then began putting in the substitutes. The third touchdown came in the second half, and was made by Wilks, who went through the line eight yards for the score. M. Jemail missed the try for goal. The half ended with Rogers but eight yards away from the line.

In the third one score was made, and another in the fourth. The one in the third came after a 20-yard run by Gamache, which had put the ball on the 40-yard line. Lee then took it 20 yards more, and on a fake drop kick Lee took the ball 20 more for the score. Martland kicked the goal.

In the fourth the score was made by Wyllie, who, playing half back, did some excellent work in hitting the line, going 35 yards in three downs for the score. Cottrell failed in the try for goal.

It was at the end of the last quarter that the Providence team was most formidable. The Rogers line-up almost entirely composed of second-string men, and through valiant work by Tingley and Hayward the ball was put on Rogers 5-yard line. There the first-string men were quickly put in the game and Rogers held for downs. Lee tried to kick out of danger, but the ball went outside. The losers, by line bucking, reached the 3-yard line but there was no more advance, as the last whistle blew.

The line-up and summary:

Rogers		School of Design.
A. Sullivan, Diggles, l. e.		r. e., Fales.
Smoot, Fletcher, l. t.		r. t., Friend, Lovering.
Cottrell, Peckham, l. g.		r. g., Morrison.

Ward, Blaine, r. t.		l. t., Gauche.
M. J. Jemail, Turner, r. e.		l. e., Thorpe, McGauley.
Knox, Martland, l. h. b. q. b.,		Tingley.
E. Jemail, Wyllie, Edward, r. h. b.		r. h. b., Miller
Hoar, Lee, l. f. b.		l. h. b., Hayward, Thorpe.

Score—Rogers 32, School of Design 0. Touchdowns—Knox, M. J. Jemail, Wilks, Lee, Wyllie. Goals from touchdowns—M. J. Jemail, Martland. Umpires—Mr. Dougherty and Sayer. Referee—Mr. Mulcahey. Head Linesman—Mr. Cottrell. Time—four eight-minute periods.

Another Saturday game with Rogers has been cancelled, Manager Robson receiving notice Wednesday from Fall River that the Durfee Textile School will not be here to play. No reason was given, except that "it is impossible for us to play." Manager Robson set to work to secure another team for Saturday, trying for the Rhode Island College Freshmen, but whether they will come he has not yet heard.

ARMY AND NAVY BEATS TRAINING STATION.

At the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening the Association team defeated the Training Station at basket ball, by a score of 45 to 11. Conahay was the star, making 20 of the Association's points. The line up was as follows:

Army and Navy.	Training Station.
Lane, r.f.	l.g., Nesbitt
Haskell, l.f.	r.g., Keren
Conahay, c.	c., Hase, Miller
Strauss, r.g.	l.f., McCoy
Mount, l.g.	r.f., Darzatz

Score—Army and Navy 45, Training Station 11. Goals from floor—Lane 6, Haskell 3, Conahay 10, Strauss 1, Mount 2; Rose 2, Miller 2, Darzatz 1. Goals from fouls—Mount, McCoy.

THE WAITER'S RETORT.

[Lippincott's.]

A young sport, very loudly dressed, went into a cafe and ordered a veal cutlet. The waiter brought the order.

"Say," bawled the sport, in a loud voice, "do you call this a veal cutlet? Why, it's an insult to a calf to call that a veal cutlet."

"Beg pardon," said the waiter politely. "I didn't mean to insult you, sir."

CHANCE ANXIOUS TO RETURN.

Will Sign Any Contract President Murphy Offers Him.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Frank Chance, after declaring that Johnny Evers had his very best wishes as manager of the Chicago National League team, made the surprising statement that he would attach his signature to any kind of a contract President Murphy would offer him, even though it called for no more than $1,200, and that he would report to the club and try for a place on the team.

"I don't care about the money," said Chance, "I am giving my word that if Murphy offers me a contract outside that of manager I will sign it. I will come back, go on the training trip and work as hard as any raw recruit to gain a place on the team. I say that I will sign a $1,200 contract, although right at the present time I am turning down an offer for $18,000 next season which hinges on the condition that I get my release from Murphy.

"If Murphy doesn't offer me a contract at all I understand I will be a free agent by March 1. That, of course, will be too late to sign with any club as manager, so I guess he has the say as to whether I play ball next year.

"I have more money now than I ever thought was in the world for me when I began playing base ball. I have all I need for the rest of my life and for that reason can afford to play for the figure I say."

OFF FOR GREECE.

About 125 Army Reservists and Volunteers Leave Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—A party of about 125 Greek army reservists and volunteers left Boston early today for New York, from which city they expect to sail for Greece later in the day. Some of the men paid their own expenses, while the cost of the journey for others was borne by the Pan Hellenic Union.

A MENACE TO PROGRESS.

Prohibition on All Indian Agents and Indian Employes Ordered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Prohibition on all Indian agents and Indian employes has been ordered by Acting Commissioner Abbott of the Indian Bureau, who today issued directions to employes to co-operate constantly in overcoming the great difficulties of keeping intoxicating liquors from the Indians.

Recent reports to the bureau indicate that there is a laxity at some Indian schools and agencies and that certain government physicians prescribe liquor for medicinal purposes. Mr. Abbott warned that intoxicants constituted a great menace to Indian health and progress and that use of liquor without permission of the Secretary of War, even for medicinal purposes, was prohibited, except wines for church purposes.

SILVER BULLION HIGHER.

Manufacturers of Sterling Flatware Advance Price 10 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Owing to increase in the price the silver bullion manufacturers of sterling silver flatware have advanced the price of spoons, forks and tableware approximately 10 per cent. In January last silver bars were quoted in the New York market at 57 cents an ounce. The price today is slightly above 65 cents. The reason given for the upward movement is that the Indian government has come into the market as a heavy buyer of silver bullion.

RETURNS TO FORMER CUSTOM.

Unusual Features Will Mark Meetings in Providence October 31, November 1 and 2.

The sixty-eighth annual session of the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 31 and November 1 and 2, in Providence, returning this year to the former custom of holding simply one general session in the fall instead of two meetings at different times of the year.

Several unusual features will mark the meetings. Addresses by speakers of national reputation, a demonstration of the use of moving pictures and talking machines in schools, a discussion of the world peace movement and an explanation of the Camp Fire Girls are some of these. Among the speakers are such men as Rev. Edward Cummings, successor to Edward Everett Hale; Jacob Riis, journalist, author and social settlement worker, and Dr. Woods Hutchinson, physician and writer. The program is as follows:

Thursday, October 31.

Morning, general session: 9:30, organ recital, Mrs. Alfa L. Small; 9:50, invocation, Rev. James M. McConnell, D. D.; 10, introductory address, President Leonard H. Campbell; 10:10, "Horatio B. Knox, an Appreciation," David W. Hoyt; 10:20, address, Governor Aram J. Pothier; 10:30, violin solos, Reber Nettleton Johnson, Chicago, accompanied by Gene Ware; 10:45, "Extension Courses," Professor Walter Goodnow Everett, Brown University; 10:55, "My Neighbors," Jacob A. Riis.

Afternoon, sectional meetings, village and rural school section, study hall, Rhode Island Normal School, Superintendent Henry M. Walradt, president: 2:15, "The Importance and Dignity of the Rural School," Superintendent H. M. Walradt, Coventry; 2:30, "The Opportunities of the Rural School," Miss Ethel Harriet Nash, Westboro, Mass., former principal rural training school, North Adams, Mass.; 3, "What We Have a Right to Expect from the Rural School," Julius E. Warren, agent of the Massachusetts Board of Education.

High school section, lecture room, Classical high school, Arthur L. Williams president: 2:15, "Our Future Citizens," Jacob Riis; 3, "Some Fundamental Principles of Learning," Professor Stephen S. Colvin, Brown University.

Grammar school section, hall, Technical high school, J. R. D. Oldham president: 2:15, "The Larger Interpretation of the Teaching Function," Professor Adolf A. Berle, Tufts College; 3, "Promotion by Subjects," George E. Tuss, principal Forest Park school, Springfield.

Primary and kindergarten section, Infantry hall. Miss Mary D. Phillips president: 2:15, "Reading—The First of the Three R's," Miss Jennie Morrow Long, New York; 3, "The Creative Power of Children in Music," Miss Evelyn Fletcher Copp.

Evening, general session, Infantry hall: 7:45, Organ recital, Gene Ware; 8:05, "Songs," Mme. Claudia Rhea Fournier, contralto; 8:20, "The Curve of Social Progress," Rev. Edward Cummings, Cambridge.

Friday, November 1.

Morning, general session, Infantry Hall: 9:30, Organ recital, Mrs. Alfa L. Small; 9:45, "Songs," Loyal Phillips Shawe, baritone, accompanied by Gene Ware; 10, "Fresh Air in the Schoolroom and Elsewhere," Dr. Woods Hutchinson; 10:45, Folk dancing, arranged by Miss Ellen LeGarde; 11:15, "The Old Training and the New," James L. Hughes, chief inspector of schools, Toronto.

Afternoon, sectional meetings, village and rural schools section: 2:15, "The New Rural School," W. E. Riley, Lowell; 3, "A More Practical Course of Study for Village and Rural Schools," Orton A. Morton, Massachusetts Agricultural College.

High school section, department of English and commercial subjects, Arthur L. Williams chairman: 2:15, "What Shall We Read in High School English?" Miss Kate L. Clarke, Rogers high school, Newport; 3, "The Educational Value of Commercial Training," Miss Helen A. Stedman, Colt memorial high school, Bristol.

Department of history and modern languages, John Campbell Swift chairman: 2:15, "Practical Aims and Methods in the Teaching of Civics," J. Madison Gathany; 3, "To What End Do High Schools Teach French?" Professor Jules Ruerat.

Department of mathematics and science, Frank M. Greenlaw, chairman: 2:15, "Applied Science and Mechanical Drawing in the High School," A. H. Kimball, principal of the Fairhaven high school; 3, "High School Mathematics From a College Standpoint," Professor R. G. D. Richardson, Brown University.

Saturday, November 2.

Morning, business meeting, Rhode Island Normal School—Reports of various committees and election of officers.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Maine, has been unanimously re-elected president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. All the other officers also were re-elected.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, who, as was recently announced, was expecting an interesting family event, has been suffering for several days from a slight indisposition. This, according to an official bulletin, tends to dispel the hope which Her Majesty entertained of the birth of an heir to the throne. The bulletin adds that the condition of the queen is satisfactory.

After outlining some of his experiences in 50 years of preaching of the gospel, and reiterating his love for the service, Rev. Jabez Ford of Camden, N. Y., died in the presence of 1,000 delegates to the Baptist State convention in Utica. He was a veteran of the Civil War and was 71 years old. His wife and son were members of the audience.

A romance of nearly three quarters of a century ago was revealed by the death in New London of Jesse Sisson, who for the greater part of 50 years had lived as a hermit on Mason's Island, in the Mystic river. In early life both Andrew and his brother John were rejected by the daughter of a neighbor. This caused enmity which proved lifelong between the brothers and drove them to the life of hermits. They divided in half Mason's Island and there, for more than 50 years, each lived on his own part, without intercourse with the other.

"THE TEMPTING OF TAVERNAKE."

Story of an Unromantic Englishman and Two American Girls, by E. Phillips Oppenheim.

Another story by the indefatigable Mr. Oppenheim has just been issued "The Tempting of Tavernake" is more a character study than any of his former tales. Adventure, peril and mystery also have their share, but the development of the unromantic Mr. Tavernake, who has little imagination, an inflexible will and great faith in himself, is the theme of the story.

Tavernake is a matter-of-fact individual, immersed in his own affairs, whose highest ambition is to become a rich man. He has no interest in womankind until he comes in contact with two American girls, who teach him many things of which he had never dreamed. As a result his outlook on life is broadened, his ambitions take a different turn and he becomes a changed man. This is not effected without some bitter experiences and mental suffering on his part.

The two American girls who have a share in shaping Tavernake's career are sisters of widely different characterisfics. They have nothing in common, as their habits, the manner of their living and their attitude towards life are as far apart as the two poles. As usual in Mr. Oppenheim's books, there are several characters of shady reputation, men and women who live by their wits, and a detective who makes things rather interesting.

The illustrations are by Edmund Frederick and the book is published by Little, Brown & Co.

THREE-GUN TURRET PERFECTED.

Bureau of Ordnance Solves Problem Involving Inaccuracy of Middle Rifle.

After months of experiment the bureau of ordnance has perfected a threegun turret, which was successfully tested last week at Indian Head, proving ground. Owing to the great inaccuracy of the middle gun, it was thought for a long time that the three-gun turret design must be given up. The bureau of construction and repair had been informed that unless the turret could be perfected soon the designs of the new battleships Nevada and Oklahoma would have to be changed to allow for two gun turrets of the old style.

In view of the fact that for a long time no improvement was made in the accuracy of the fire of the three guns when fired together, the bureau of ordnance had considered the adoption of a 15 or a 16 inch gun for two-gun turrets. It is authoritatively stated that had the scheme of Rear Admiral N. C. Twining, chief of the bureau of ordnance, not proved effective, battleship Pennsylvania, instead of carrying 12 14-inch guns, would carry 10 16-inch guns.

Naval officials here believe foreign governments are having the same trouble with their three-gun turrets. The trouble lies in the peculiar physical condition that the two outboard guns when fired tightly compress the air between them, so that the shell of the middle gun is thrown from its true path. This hitherto unsolvable difficulty has been met, but the method is closely guarded by the navy ordnance experts in expectation that foreign governments will be confronted by the same difficulties and less fortunate in solving them.

The new turret which was set up at Indian Head will shortly be taken down and removed to the naval gun factory for overhauling. Each of the three remaining turrets, two of which are to go on the Oklahoma and one on the Nevada, will be set up and the same test applied to them.

BASKET MASTS SUCCESSFUL.

Report to Secretary of the Navy Will Show Value of the Type as Proved by Test.

Within a few days the report of the recent test of the lattice work mast erected on the old San Marcos in lower Chesapeake bay, showing the value of this type of fire control mast, will be sent to the Secretary of the Navy. The report has been drafted and signed by all but one or two of those naval officers who were designated to watch the experiments.

The success of the lattice work mast is no longer in doubt. The reason for this conclusion is stated in the report, which goes minutely into each technical detail from the construction of this particular mast to the clearing away of the wreckage after it had been knocked down.

September 3 monitor Tallahassee fired 15 12-inch shells filled with explosive "D" at the mast which had been erected at an angle of 15 degrees on the stern of the San Marcos. Although the distance was but 1,000 yards, three of the shots either went through holes made by previous shots or missed the mast entirely. The sixteenth shot, which exploded within the mast, brought it down a mass of wreckage in such a condition that if not cleared away it would have rendered the turret of an active ship useless.

After every shot members of the committee went on board the San Marcos and examined the effect. Photographs which accompany the report show the result of each shot.

Immediately after the mast fell a crew of men from battleship Idaho cleared away the wreckage with a view to determining the amount of work and time required to clear the decks in time of war. The report states that the sailors found the steel tubing very easy to cut and the mast light enough to be pushed overboard within a few minutes. It is unanimously agreed by members of the board that in time of action, should the mast fall, the ship would be disabled only a few minutes.

So successful has been the test that the new Pennsylvania, now being designed, will be equipped with two of the masts.

THE AUTUMN STAR.

[New York Times.]

The autumn leaves turn brown and sere.
And drift to molder in the shade;
Down by the river's brink a fear
Creeps where the quivering rushes hear
The footsteps of the passing year
Go slowly through the glade.

His pipes are silent; in despair
Sits Pan amid the river reeds.
The wind blows back his unkempt hair
Across dank marshes, wild and bare;
The naiad lurks no longer there,
Nor faun his music needs.

Among the stars in bright array,
The nymphs that mortal voles must flee!
The faun Capella beckons thee
To notes of wilder ecstasy—
Take up thy pipes and play!

TAFT MEN WIN IN NEBRASKA.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 23.—The state supreme court today handed down a unanimous decision holding that six Taft electors chosen by the Republican state committee, together with the two Republican electors chosen at the spring primary who remained loyal to Taft, were entitled to the designation "Republican" on the ballot in the general election and to a place at the top of the ballot.

The decision of the district court in a case brought by the Taft men seeking to deny the Roosevelt men the use of the name "Republican" was upheld by the supreme court.

ORDERS TO NAVAL OFFICERS.

Acting Assistant Surgeon J. T. Duhigg, detached from the marine recruiting station, Cleveland, and ordered to the navy recruiting station in that city.

Acting Assistant Surgeon J. C. Littell, detached from the navy recruiting station, Cincinnati, and ordered to the marine recruiting station, Cleveland.

Chief Pharmacist F. W. Breck, commissioned.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

[Lippincott's.]

Two Marylanders, who were visiting the National Museum at Washington, were seen standing in front of an Egyptian mummy, over which hung a placard bearing the inscription, "B. C. 1187."

Both visitors were much mystified thereby. Said one:

"What do you make out of that, Bill?"

"Well," said Bill, "I dunno; but maybe it was the number of the motor-car that killed him."

THE NEWS IN PROVIDENCE.

NEWPORT COUNTY AND MR. SHEFFIELD.

The Daily News admits to its columns today the communication of "J. B. E.," in accordance with its policy to allow fair discussion of men and measures, whether the arguments advanced are in agreement with its own views or the contrary. In the present case the writer recalls the fact that two years ago The News advocated the election of Mr. Sheffield to Congress, among other reasons because he had before represented the district and would be in accord with the party of the majority in that body. Those were good arguments then, and the same reasons now have force with regard to the election of the Democratic candidate, Mr. O'Shaunessy. However, The News believes there are other and weightier reasons why the towns in this part of the state should vote to substitute Mr. Sheffield for Mr. O'Shaunessy in the coming election.

It may be possible, also, that our correspondent is a little premature in concluding that the lower branch of Congress will again be Democratic in politics. If it should be, it would not be following the precedents of recent history.

MODERN DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

It has been said that a good cook often earns a larger salary than many a college professor, and does not work as hard. However true this may be, it is certain that the supply of domestic helpers in this country is far below the demand and those who have the good fortune to possess maids who are good cooks will not permit them to slip away through lack of effort to keep them comfortable and contented. They willingly pay the large price they demand, knowing that if they do not they will be left with inferior help, who demand exorbitant wages without the ability to do the things required of them. A candidate for household service too often feels that she is in a position to demand what she desires and, ignorant though she may be in other things, she knows she will usually obtain it. This is a condition which students of domestic science are trying hard to remedy, and they are succeeding admirably in the effort to eliminate this sort of person from the position which she is endeavoring to hold.

Maids who apply for positions and many times have no knowledge as to how the work should be done, do not know the first rudiments of good cooking, or what constitutes cleanliness and sanitation, are causing domestic science to be taken up by more students each year, who have seen these conditions in their own homes and are trying to remedy them. The question who shall do the housework for the busy woman who has not time or strength to do it for herself is being solved more and more by these students, who realize that the art of home making is a profession which can be filled only by those who know how. Why should not cookery rank as a profession if the cook understands her business thoroughly, if she is proficient in the chemistry of food, if she knows dietetics as she should, if she appreciates the value of the food stuffs she selects and knows how to secure the greatest good from what she cooks? What more would be needed to make cookery a profession and dignify it as a science?

Many of the girls in domestic service today do not appreciate what is done for them. Of course in every household the work is never really done, and if ever the servant has a home of her own she will find the conditions in this respect the same. It is true also that the associations of the kitchen are not always agreeable, but it is a fair question if she would find conditions any better in shop or mill. Is she corrected for faults by the mistress of the house with half the severity used by heads of departments and floor walkers in stores or employers in an office? Can she do as well or be as contented in any other line of work where she receives the same pay? Then she must take into consideration the fact that she is among the few persons who are not affected by the high cost of living in these days. She does not need to think that rent and food are higher than ever before, for the roof over her head and her board are paid for by her employer, and in many cases her clothing or a part of it is supplied by her mistress.

When so many girls must go back and forth—ride home to shop or mill in all sorts of weather, whatever their state of health; when they may come in daily contact with people who are distasteful, when they must bear many things not at all to their liking, because of the fear that they cannot find other positions if they lose those already held, it would seem as though those who are seeking work would think it worth while to weigh carefully the advantages of a domestic position. The time is not far distant when the ignorant maid of today will not be tolerated in the home and will not be allowed even to enter it, for more and more the new household economy or domestic science is taking the place in the higher education of women of the hap-hazard training in the ways of the home. The old methods are not disregarded, but are tested and improved and brought into relation with scientific ideas, thus placing the home on a business basis as a place in which salaries are paid only to those who are competent to earn them.

THE INCREASE OF TENANT FARMING.

An advance summary of a census bulletin about to appear shows that the increase of tenant farming, which began to be noticeable 30 or 40 years ago, continues unabated. The gain in the last decade was more than 16 per cent and the tenant farms now constitute about three eighths of the whole number. Another 20 or 30 years, then, may put the tenants in a considerable majority over the owning farmers.

It is useless to deny that this involves serious social and economic changes, which may produce political changes; but what can we do about it? It is an inseparable feature of private ownership that a man may rent his property if he chooses. The increase in the value of farms has made it possible for owners to rent their land and live in town on the proceeds, while at the same time that increased value makes it more difficult for young men to buy and a larger proportion of them secure farms by the process which involves less capital. If they buy in course of time, it is quite likely that they in turn will rent to another generation of young farmers.

The number of mortgaged farms increased something more than 17 per cent during the decade and now constitutes about a third of those cultivated by their owners. It is absurd to sympathize with farmers over their mortgages, as has been done so extensively in political campaigns, for with rare exceptions they have gone into debt not to secure the means of living but to obtain their farms in the first place, and afterward more farms. These mortgages to an overwhelming extent are commercial obligations, analogous to the loans made by a merchant or manufacturer to carry on his business.

It is undeniable, however, that in the country as well as in the city land owning is becoming one form of capitalism, and those who must hire, both in town and country, are steadily and rather rapidly growing in numbers. But what would you do? Have communism in land?

A CHEERFUL GIVER.

What an ovals—green and green-backy—in an arid desert of niggardliness must Thomas F. Ryan have been to treasurers of Democratic campaign funds! August Belmont went as high as a quarter of million in his gifts eight years ago, but Thomas Ryan approached a half-million. Democratic treasurers have never had such easy times as Republican treasurers, because the latter always had the manufacturers out of whom to "fry the fat," in John James Ingalls's picturesque and culinary phrase. Besides, as their party has seldom controlled Congress they had few opportunities of assuring railroad or industrial interests of the advantage of having friends at court.

Furthermore, Ryan was willing to pay magnificently for a "dead horse." Eight years ago he gave his party treasury $50,000 as a starter. Incidentally he gave about as much more, and when it was certain that Judge Parker could not be elected, and there was imminent danger that the campaign itself would collapse, this princely donor gave $350,000 to pay the outstanding bills and keep the party machinery in operation, without a hope of success. Was there ever such a giver before?

Yet Ryan had not reached the bottom of his pile. In the campaign before the Baltimore convention he gave large sums to help Harmon and Underwood and would have contributed to the campaign funds of Clark and Wilson if he had been asked. It will be remembered that Ryan is the man whom Henry Watterson arranged to have Woodrow Wilson meet, with a view to "touching" him for the expenses of the campaign. It will also be remembered that Wilson's bashfulness about being backed by Ryan led to Watterson's discovery that the New Jersey man was a schoolmaster and not a statesman.

Ryan was ready to help any Democratic candidate except William Jennings Bryan. Bryan dominated the Baltimore convention, and demanded that all representatives of Wall Street interests, mentioning Ryan by name, should be expelled from the convention. He knew Ryan.

The latest revolution in Mexico proved unexpectedly short-lived, lasting scarcely a week, and was put down with a minimum of fighting and bloodshed. General Diaz, who headed the revolt, has been regarded as the man who could wield the greatest influence with the army and the people, and his comparatively easy defeat at Vera Cruz will undoubtedly have the effect of stopping other would-be leaders who might be disposed to attempt to overthrow the power of President Madero. The general opinion is that the success of the government forces against Diaz will operate materially to strengthen the present administration in Mexico.

The political campaign may now be said to be really in operation, though it is not so active in many respects as in former Presidential years. There are no campaign marching clubs, no torchlight processions, no bands playing, and in this part of the state at least comparatively few political rallies. The struggle is on, nevertheless, and has reached the stage where the party managers are claiming the certain success of their respective candidates. This is not all they are doing, but is largely what they are publicly doing. The election is now less than two weeks in the future and the agony will be short.

Hundreds of Berlin housewives are reported to have joined in a riot because the butchers in the municipal market refused to handle meat imported to reduce the cost of living. Prices have been so high in Berlin that the government recently removed the embargo and allowed the city authorities to bring in imported meats and fix the prices. The butchers refused to sell and boycotted the importations, resulting in the trouble with the housewives. The municipality intends to punish the butchers by cancelling their licenses. This is a new phase of the high cost of living problem.

Though the allied forces seem to be making steady gains in the preliminary battles of the Balkan war, it is not to be supposed that Turkey will always be beaten in the conflict. That country has too many resources to yield easily. It promises to be a sharp, active war, with an evident determination to reach a decision before winter stops operations.

Patriotism is not confined to one race. Not only are the Greeks in the United States returning to their native land to fight the Turks, but Servians are crowding into New York from all parts of the country, from Manitoba and Alaska, to take the earliest steamers for Europe, many to enlist as privates in the army.

The rain was welcome, even if it did interfere with a few social pleasures.

THE ATMOSPHERE OF THE STREET CORNERS.

[Civic League Bulletin.]

Probably no one of the city ordinances is violated more frequently—and without interference from the police—than that which forbids "any person or persons to stand, lie, or remain in or upon any side-walk, street or wharf in this city so as to obstruct free and uninterrupted passing thereon." It is no unusual sight, especially in the Washington Square region, to see groups of idlers lounging on the street corners and often occupying so much of the sidewalk that the pedestrian must take to the middle of the street. Within the past few weeks many complaints have been heard from women and girls who have to frequent this part of the city while waiting for the cars at the foot of the Parade or passing to and fro from their work on Thames street.

It is not that these loafers are noisy or causing a disturbance in the eyes of the law. The casual observer would see only a group of idle men gossiping among themselves on the Presidential election or a base ball score. But as it has been well said—"It is the very offensiveness of the atmosphere through which women and girls must pass." The rude glances, the outspoken, insolent comments, and the careless jostling of the passer-by, combine to make a great annoyance for those who must walk past these headquarters of the street loafers.

It is an encouraging sign that a policeman stationed near the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association "moves on" the crowds that so often congregate there, but vigilance in other sections is equally necessary if the rights of pedestrians are to be protected and the safety of women and girls on our public thoroughfares is to be maintained.

SINGER BUILDING PROJECTS OVER LINE.

Representatives of the Singer Manufacturing Company, as owners, have been notified informally by the department of public works that 130 feet and 1 inch of the Liberty-street side of the big Singer Building in New York projects 15 inches beyond the building line. It is apparent that the sliding involved will not be done at once, nor for that matter till after some very active litigation. The answer of the Singer Company to the formal notice will be an injunction against the city in which street locations, sidewalk locations, official surveys, ordinances and laws beginning around 1787 and running down to date will be passed upon.

It is acknowledged that the action to be taken against the building—which is, however, only one of the units of the tower building itself—will be the most extensive yet undertaken in the campaign of the city of New York to recover its sidewalks. If the city should win and compel the company to move its building back it means a sheer foot and three inches off the construction. This will not only require the removal of the heavy granite bases and buttresses on the first floor, but above that, it was thought, it might reach the steel construction itself. The cost of this job would run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Mrs. Abraham Anthony Severely Ill—Miss Elsie Barker Married in New York.

A message has been sent to Mr. and Mrs. Ashton C. Barker, who are guests of their daughter, Mrs. Karl M. Stone, in New York, calling them home on account of the severe illness of Mrs. Barker's step-mother, Mrs. Abraham Anthony, who makes her home with Mrs. Barker and is threatened with pneumonia. Mrs. Hathaway is caring for Mrs. Anthony. Mr. and Mrs. Barker, accompanied by their eldest daughter, Mrs. Robert Patterson of Newport, left for New York Saturday for a 10 days' visit and were present at the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Elsie Plummer Barker, to Mr. George Klapthor, Tuesday evening of this week. The young couple were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Stone, by Rev. Charles L. Goodell, formerly of Providence, and now pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church in New York. The wedding was very simple, only a few relatives and friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Klapthor will be at home after November 15 at 505 West One Hundred and Forty-first street, New York.

While the storm Wednesday evening postponed several social functions, every one felt thankful for the rain, which was greatly needed. A few families ventured out for the Epworth League literary meeting, which was to have been held with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Peckham, among them Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Wells and family, but not enough were present to give the regular program, which will be presented later. A number from Middletown had planned to attend "Neighbors' night" with Nonquit Grange, Tiverton, but only a few went.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Underwood entertained today about 20 members of the two families at an annual reunion at their home on the West Main road.

The business meeting of the Junior Branch of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was postponed, owing to the small attendance Wednesday evening at Holy Cross guild house, due to the storm.

George E. Adams, professor of agriculture at Kingston college, will be the speaker before Aquidneck Grange at the corn exhibition Worthy Ceres, Mrs. J. A. Peckham, will read a paper on "Grain."

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Captain and Mrs. John M. Brownell entertained Tuesday evening in honor of the former's fifty ninth birthday about 40 of his relatives and friends from Portsmouth, South Portsmouth, Middletown and Newport, at their home on Power street. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock, the menu being rost chicken, stewed wild duck, ham, vegetables, cranberry and apple sauce, pies, cake, ice cream, fruit and confectionery. Mrs. Everett Cornell, Miss Ruth Coggeshall and Miss Lake of Newport kept the piano lively most of the time. A number of handsome presents were given Mr. Brownell.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. William F. Freeborn, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Spooner, their daughter Elsie and son, William; Mr. and Mrs. Leander W. Coggeshall and Esther Coggeshall, Miss Ruth Coggeshall, Mr. Lester Coggeshall, Mr. Joseph De Terra, Miss Laura De Terra, Mrs. Manuel Olivia and her son from Newport, Mrs. Grace Barker and Miss Mary Barker from Middletown, Mrs. Edward P. Macomber, Mr. Herbert G. Brownell, and Miss Lake from Newport; Mrs. Everett Cornell and her two sons, Lloyd and Darrell; Mrs. Phebe Pray; the daughter, Gladys, and two sons, Stanton and Clifton, of Newport, Jonathan T. Brownell, and Mr. Brownell's immediate family, six in number.

A number went from here to Slocum Wednesday, to attend the auction.

Mrs. L. A. Popple entertained recently Mrs. Josephine Davis of New Bedford, Mrs. Mary I. Davis of Salem and Mr. M. W. Davis of South Framingham. The three guests all came on the same train, and though of the same name did not know each other, or that either was expected at Mrs. Popple's. She also entertained Mr. John Sargent of Providence and her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Manchester and three children.

Friends and relatives have received the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Ashton C. Barker of the marriage of their daughter, Elsie Plummer, to Mr. George Klapthor, in New York. They will be at home after November 15 at 505 West One Hundred and First street. The marriage took place at the home of Mrs. Klapthor's sister, Mrs. Karl M. Stone.

Miss Flora Phinney entertained two Middletown teachers, Miss Etta M. Sherman and Miss Helen Sibley, recently, and Mrs. Lucy M. Phinney entertained Miss Isabella F. Fish Tuesday evening.

NEW LONDON BENEFICIARY OF SEBASTIAN D. LAWRENCE.

The gross estate of Sebastian D. Lawrence, who died May 28, 1909, at his home in New London, Conn., in his eighty-sixth year, is valued at $5,331,-794. Mr. Lawrence made several large public bequests in his will. The city of New London will receive more than $300,000 for a free public hospital, and the same city receives an additional $50,000 for the erection of an almshouse. A fund is also provided to buy a spec-

TAFT ON HIS OATH.

[President Taft, in Saturday Evening Post.]

The oath taken by the President of the United States calls upon God to witness that he will uphold the Constitution of the United States, and when I took that oath I took it with full and unqualified conviction that "the fabric our fathers builded will stand all shocks of faith or fortune." Bound by that pledge and guided by that conviction, I have spurned every attempt to undermine that great bill of rights which is indispensable to the preservation of our liberties; and no man can say I have ever faltered, even when, as in more than one instance, the course to which I was pledged forfeited a certain popular approval or impelled the criticism of the thoughtless or of that far greater class, those too greatly occupied in the turmoil of our industrial progress to investigate and reflect.

It is easy to handy charges and to misrepresent motives. Any man can bear false witness against his neighbor, but charges are not proof and calumnies are not evidence, and I defy any man to prove that I have ever been false to my solemn responsibilities, have ever betrayed the trust reposed in me. I face the future confident that my acts will prove my motives and that time will confound those who have misrepresented them.

BAGGAGE RULE SUSPENDED.

Regulations further to restrict the size and to limit the weight of personal baggage to travelers, adopted by substantially all railroads in the United States, have been suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission until April 29. The regulation provides that on any piece of baggage the greatest dimension of which exceeds 45 inches an additional charge for each additional inch will be made to equal 10 pounds of excess weight, and that no piece of baggage of a greater dimension than 70 inches will be transported in any baggage car.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

Every citizen of Newport entitled to vote at the coming election on November 5, should be sure that his name is on the district list of the district wherein he resides.

The second lists as corrected by the Board of Canvassers are now posted in three different places in each district and all the district lists are now posted on the illuminated board on Washington Square and also in the City Hall.

Due to the new tax law many persons who were formerly taxed individually have been dropped from the tax book this year because of their business having been taxed. All persons conducting a business in a name other than their own and who may be entitled to vote, should be sure that their names are on the lists.

All persons who may be entitled to vote and whose names are not on the lists, and all persons who have changed their addresses since the last election, should notify the City Clerk at once.

Per Order of the Board of Canvassers.

ABUSED HER WHEN DRUNK.

Petitioner in Gadsby Divorce Case Relates Many Instances in Detail.

Further Evidence in Sweeney-Brow Suit, Heard in Part by the Late Judge Lee.

In the superior court this morning Judge Baker took up the equity case of Michael Sweeney vs. George H. Brow. Messrs. Harvey, and Ryan of Fall River, appeared for Sweeney, and Mr. Greenhalge for Brow. It had been partly heard by the late Judge Lee and most of the testimony taken. This testimony was agreed to be in the case. It is the matter of the auction of a summer place in Tiverton.

Arthur M. Read took the stand. He is of North Westport, Mass. Knows Lewis, Gray, Michael Sweeney and Mr. Gildard. Told of a conversation between them. Did not hear Mr. Gray urge Mr. Lewis to bid more, and Mr. Lewis refuse. Stood about a foot from Lewis. (This was supposed to refer to the time after $9,800 was bid.) Witness told Lewis the price was low.

James E. McDonald of Fall River was called by Mr. Ryan. Worked for Gildard and his father. Was employed by Brow to write receipts at the auction and was on the platform all the time. Before the farm was knocked down, after the last bid, Gray spoke to Gildard, who then left the wagon, and returning whispered something, after which the farm was knocked down to Sweeney. After the sale, in Brow's house, all had supper. Brow and Gildard shook hands and congratulated each other on the sale, and said it was perfectly satisfactory—absolutely on the level. Brow said: "Michael Sweeney now owns the farm." Witness does not work for Gildard now. Brow said he was glad to be rid of the farm. Witness was summoned before he had spoken a word to any soul about the case. He is now 15 years old.

James B. Gildard was re-called. He said Brow did not say he was glad to be rid of the farm. He and Brow did not shake hands and congratulate each other. It was not said that the sale was absolutely on the level. Did not hear any such language as "Michael Sweeny now owns the farm."

George H. Brow was re-called. He did not say he was glad to be rid of the farm—never said so. Did not shake hands with Gildard and congratulate him. Did not say Sweeny was now owner of the farm, etc. Did not see McDonald on the platform; saw him at supper in the house.

Here the testimony closed.

There is a stipulation of agreement that the case be certified to the supreme court, and this was ordered by the court.

The divorce of Christina A. Gadsby vs. William Gadsby was then taken up. Messrs. Phillips and Hinckley of Providence and W. J. Lambert of Washington appeared for plaintiff and Mr. J. A. Sullivan and Mr. I. X. Cotte of Fall River for respondent. A considerable number of women and men, supposedly witnesses, came into the courtroom, and reporters of Fall River papers were present.

Mr. Phillips was allowed to amend the petition, to ask that petitioner be allowed to resume her former name of Cox. He said it is a long case, taking at least two days, and he would like the present hearing to be only on the main question, leaving the matter of alimony for a later hearing or possible agreement, in case divorce should be granted. The court said that course was taken in a celebrated case, and the question of alimony has been on for two years and is of yet settled. Mr. Phillips said there would be many questions on the alimony. The court thought best to leave it for later consideration and counsel agreed.

Petitioner testified. She is hard of hearing. She lives in Washington, now. She was married in 1910, in Taunton, and they went to live in Tiverton. They were there almost two months, then went to Washington. While in Tiverton, three days after the marriage, he asked her what property she had. She mentioned a house in Washington, paid for, and another which she was paying for. He cursed and swore and said he would not pay her debts, and he thought she was worth $15,000. He went on all night and called her a pauper and cursed her. She asked him to take her back to her home. He always drank; not so much in Tiverton. He humiliated her at a party.

In Washington he abused her, after he sold the Stone Bridge Hotel. The deal did not come as soon as he desired, and he cursed her, called her a pauper and said she was in league with a lawyer and if the deed was not right he would kill her. She had signed the deed for him.

Again, after they had been to a carnival, and had a supper and drinks, and had a very nice time, and after they had gone home and gone to sleep, he woke her, pounding her, and making vile and profane accusations against her. After she sold her house, he made more accusations. He often cursed and swore.

They all went out and had drinks in Washington. They had drinks every day. Kept beer and liquors in the house always. He was frequently under the influence of liquor. His abuse made her nervous and despondent; used her all up. Before others, and when he didn't have these spells, he was lovely to her; that is what made it so hard.

In April, 1911, they returned to Tiverton and remained into November. He went to the Elks' reunion, came back drunk, called her "the same old names" and made the same vile accusations. On another occasion all had drinks and others being present he humiliated her by his vile accusations. He threatened to kill her, also. She packed her grip and was going to leave before her guests had breakfast. He begged her to stay and apologized before the guests and said he supposed it was "whiskey talking."

On another occasion, after they had a house party at the house, he repeated his vile charges and swore. It was after 11 p. m. Another night he came in drunk, grabbed her by the hair and swore and abused her. She screamed and fought him off and went out and sat on the steps. When he became quiet she went into a room and locked herself in. He came three times and she would not let him in.

They went in the automobile to New Hampshire. There he swore and made vile accusations. That summer they all went out and had drinks; he would go to the barroom for more. He was drinking every time he would abuse her like that. Sometimes it would be more than a week he didn't. He was a demon when drunk.

At Christmas had company New Year's Eve and lots of drinking. That night she thought he would kill her. Another time he struck her in the breast, and she ran from him, not giving him a chance to strike her again. He called her all the bad names he could think of. She never went out without him. He was frequently under the influence of liquor in Washington, up to May, 1912. It made him crazy.

After that, in Tiverton, the abuse continued. One night, when a number of men were drunk in the house, and he grabbed her fiercely, using the vilest of language, was detailed. One night when he had been drinking, and was going with other men to Newport, she went out and told him that if he went and had more drink she would make it hot for the one who let him have it.

The last occasion was August 9, 1912. They had been to Newport, rilling, and all had two beers. He had more of his abuse, and she asked him how he could kneel down and pray after talking so to her. His daughter Emma came home, and both abused her. He told her to get out and said he would kill her. She said she would go in the morning, if he didn't kill her. He grabbed her by the throat and cursed her and said he would kill her. The next morning she went. He drank, in the nights; was frequently intoxicated, at that time.

After a short recess the marriage certificate was put in evidence. Petitioner said she was in good health when married, now she is a pitiful wreck. It is caused by respondent's treatment and accusations. It has almost affected her mind. She was always a faithful wife. He lived in Tiverton when she left him. He was not in business when she married him.

In cross-examination, to Mr. Cuttle, petitioner said she met respondent at the inauguration of Mr. Roosevelt. Respondent was then married, and so was petitioner. He was then keeping the Stone Bridge House; petitioner's former husband was in the saloon business. Mr. Gadsby had nothing else to do and was a great man to help her in house work. He was a baker. When they had a maid he di dnot help. Being quizzed as to her weight, she said she is 20 pounds lighter than when she married respondent. She did not ask Mr. Gadsby to pay the mortgage on her house; did not say she bought it to entertain him.

"Silver King" Sullivan was at the "clam boil" at Gadsby's, with others. Witness was present. All drank punch. The men had whiskey and whatever they wanted. (After this event occurred one of the early instances of abuse). Witness never had any bills for Gadsby to pay. Never asked him to sell any property.

Often went out with him—usually to some place where there was drinking. Sometimes, after supper, they went to the Hofbrau in Newport. All drank there. Witness drank what the other ladies drank. They also drank in the Silver King's. One night, on the ferryboat, they were both sick. They made her drink "hot scotch" three times, because they had no wraps and it was cold. She had never taken it before and it made her sick.

In Washington, they went once or twice a week to her mother's; there was always something to drink at her mother's. The "carnival" at the "Sangerbund" in Washington was a "Fools' Carnival," with much drinking by those present. Witness had beer and wine, Mr. Gadsby went also to the bar twice; she told him not to go. The wine on top of the beer made her sick.

He woke her up, after she retired, pounding her. She picked up the telephone and called the police. He left the house by the back door, returning the next day. She was in bed. He took out some papers and said he was going to leave. He asked her later to "make up" with him and make a ride. She said no, she was tired of it, and he had shamed her. He promised not to do it again. She went with him.

The Elks' reunion was at Holyoke, Mass. She did not go. He went out without her, but she did not go without him.

At 12:43 the court declared a recess to 2 P. M.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mrs. Ogden Goelet has closed "Ochre Court" and returned to New York.

—Mr. H. H. Ward has shipped his horses and carriages to Washington for the winter.

—Colonel George R. Fearing is here and has opened his cottage on Narragansett avenue.

—Captain Joe Millett, who has been her skipper for some time, has purchased from James T. O'Connell fishing schooner Maude Gertrude.

—Mr. S. E. Huntington has closed his cottage near Castle hill and returned to Brooklyn today.

—Miss Dixie Warner of Speldhurst, England, and Miss Margaret Herrick are guests of Mrs. E. J. Herrick at her cottage on Clay street.

—Flagship Virginia sailed at 8:20 this morning, going outside for manoeuvres, with the intention of returning to harbor tonight. There was a good sea on.

—Captain Walter Chase of the Lobster has abandoned his plan to take the boat to Florida waters. He did not succeed in securing a crew to go, and it is a long journey for one man to make. His boat has been hauled out for the season.

—For the Board of Aldermen's weekly meeting this evening two hearings on claims for damages by falls on the streets were set, but it is understood that the Weiss case will not be ready and it is a question if the Sullivan case will be.

—The Rogers High School Athletic Association has arranged to have Professor Thomas Crosby, Jr., of Brown University give a reading in the near future for its benefit. The selection will probably be the play, "The Importance of Being Earnest."

—Through the generosity of Miss Wallach, the inmates of the Children's Home will attend the performance Friday afternoon, November 1, at the Colonial Theatre, for the benefit of the Teachers' Retirement Fund, under the auspices of the Lenthal Teachers' Club.

—A man of foreign tongue had his bicycle skid on the Broadway pavement at the head of Marlborough street late Wednesday afternoon and the wheel went under a private coupe which was passing. The man landed safely on the pavement, and by good work on the part of the coachman the wheel was not much injured.

—The Newport Shipyard was the lowest bidder for the repairs to Fort Adams launch Captain Drum, the figures being $2,459. Last spring, when bids were asked for this work, the shipyard was lowest but there was such a demand for the Drum that the work could not be done. Now proposals were put out this fall, when there is less work for the boats.

—Captain Champion has made considerable improvements about his boat shop on Long wharf. A concrete wall has replaced the stone wall, which was in need of constant repairs; the boathouse has been overhauled, the railroad put in order and generally the place put in first-class condition. He will store some boats other than his own at the shop this winter, having good accommodations for hauling out and for repair work if necessary.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Conanicut Council, Royal Arcanum, turned out in large numbers Wednesday evening, in spite of the rain, to meet the officers of the Grand Council on their annual visit. Grand Regent John H. French had been expected to make the visitation, but was detained at his home in East Providence by illness, much to the regret of the members of the local council. He was represented by Grand Orator Fred M. Hammett and Grand Secretary John S. Kellogg. District Deputy Grand Regent Horace S. Brown also being present. The grand officers were accompanied by Regent Thomas B. Tanner and a dozen members of Coronet Council of Newport.

During the evening one candidate was initiated and two applications favorably acted upon. This makes a total of 13 new members which the Council has received during the past eight months, a gain of more than 50 per cent in membership.

Under the good of the order the visiting officials, Regent Tanner and Orator Hosmer of Coronet Council, and the new member of Conanicut Council spoke, the grand officers congratulating the members of Conanicut Council on their active work for the Arcanum and their excellent prospects of securing the banner which Grand Regent French has offered to the Council making the largest percentage of gain during his term of office.

After the speech-making ice cream and cake were served and a social with informal singing was had until it was time for the Newporters to take their launch for the return home.

Mr. Alton Head, who is building the state road near Conanicut Park, received orders Monday from the State Board of Good Roads to discontinue work until further notice. As the work was taken by contract, such a move is not understood here. The stopping of the work on the road and at the quarry would not only throw a number of men out of employment but put a heavy expense on Mr. Head, as the section now ready for the stone would need to be graded again if work were long discontinued. Besides, the starting up and closing down of the quarry is quite expensive.

Some of the much needed rain arrived Wednesday, beginning to fall in the early afternoon and continuing showery until daylight this morning. At times the rain came down hard, the total fall probably being about an inch. This will probably help the town's water supply a little, but much more is needed to make much gain in the reservoirs, which are at present the lowest for years; in fact, so low has the supply become that several days ago the Ferry Company was requested to take water for the boat at Newport and other stops to prevent waste.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weeden are visiting relatives in Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Ledyard Anthony is on a trip in New Hampshire.

Lighter Archer of Fall River landed a cargo of lumber on Ferry wharf this morning.

LAST DAYS APPROACH.

Ante-Election Period in Which to Qualify for Voting and Pay Taxes Drawing to a Close.

The last days approach in the ante-election period. Friday will be the final for naturalized citizens who have not filed their papers with the city clerk in order to do so, and vote. The Board of Aldermen will make the second last canvass of the voting lists Friday evening when it would be well to have changes in addresses or corrections of names or errors on the ward lists in for action, so that there will be not too much crowded into the last canvass meeting next Wednesday.

Tuesday of next week will be the last day for paying personal property taxes to qualify for voting at the November election. In anticipation of a rush by those who have forgotten or have neglected to pay Tax Collector Higbee has arranged to have his office open evenings, beginning Friday, and continuing to November 1. This will enable poll taxpayers as well as personal property taxpayers to go to the office in the evening and pay. Many find it difficult during the regular hours. Saturday afternoon the city Hall will be closed, but Collector Higbee will have his office open in the evening.

TWO SURPRISE PARTIES.

A surprise party was given Wednesday to Miss Hattie Devlin at her home on Washington street. Games were played and instrumental music was rendered by several of the guests. The house was decorated for the occasion with black and orange crepe paper and at midnight a buffet supper was served. Mrs. Devlin assisted her daughter in receiving and entertaining the guests.

A number of members of Rhode Island, Excelsior and Esther Rebekah lodges of Odd Fellows arranged a surprise house-warming for Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peckham at their new home on Hall avenue Wednesday evening. Games were played and there was general and individual singing to make a social evening.

AT THE YOUNG MEN'S REPUBLICAN DINNER.

The executive committee of the Young Men's Republican Club completed Wednesday evening arrangements for the annual dinner, to be held next Thursday evening in Reilly hall. Governor Wilson of Kentucky will be the principal speaker and addresses will be made by Governor Pothier, former Congressman Sheffield and Senator George Peabody Wetmore. It is expected that Mr. Shoemaker, who made a favorable impression at the recent Republican state convention in Providence, will also speak.

Y. M. C. A. FAIR OPENS.

Exhibits of Dairy Products and Fancy Articles, With Many Other Attractions.

The Young Men's Christian Association fair opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the exhibit in many respects is superior to that of other years, due to the generosity of the friends who have been assisting and donating.

In the main lobby is the flower booth, loaded with vases of crysanthemums, dahlias, snapdragons, roses, hydrangeas, ivy plants and Jerusalem cherries.

In the boys' game room on the opposite side is the shooting gallery, a novel affair arranged by some of the boys, in which the targets are the three Presidential candidates, Taft, Wilson and Roosevelt. A score will be kept to determine which is the favorite.

Generous donations of vegetables, cut flowers, potted plants, poultry and dairy products have been received, among the places sending contributions being "Hammersmith Farm," "Oakland Farm," "Glen Farm" and "Black Point Farm"; Mrs. W. B. Leeds, August Belmont, Mrs. R. L. Beeckman, Mrs. T. O. Richardson and Mrs. Theodore K. Gibbs. This collection includes lettuce, tomatoes, cabbage, squash, onions, radishes, celery, apples, etc.

The dairy products from "Oakland," "Glen" and "Black Point" farms also figure prominently. Even before the fair proper opened a large quantity of the butter had been sold; the dressed chickens and ducks also proved quick sellers. Another contribution from "Black Point Farm" was a pair of black nun pigeons, also, a sleek-looking Hampshire pig weighing 150 pounds, which was on exhibition in the back yard.

The second floor of the building is devoted to the fancy articles sold by the women. The tables have been arranged by Mr. Winfield S. Sisson and Mr. James Robertson in an attractive manner. In the other hall the supper will be served, Miss Annie Manuel, as usual, having charge of this department. Tonight it will be a chicken salad supper, served at 6 o'clock. The ice cream and soda fountain down stairs will be in charge of Mr. Arvil James.

Another thing which ought to prove an interesting novelty is the home moving picture machine, or "kinetoscope" which will be operated almost continuously, showing a series of moving pictures in miniature form.

NOT MANY FISH FOR FRIDAY.

Were it not for the tautog, which are coming in well, the prospects for fish for Friday's trade would be somewhat slim. The sea was so rough Wednesday and today that the fishermen did almost nothing. F. W. Lawton had two barrels, and it is hoped to have some from Block Island, but the others were unable to haul. Wednesday Captain Pete Willett of the Freedom was in with five barrels of mackerel, including a few bloaters, and John Suza had three barrels of small mackerel in his trap. All the markets have a fair supply of fish, but the business has been big for some time and it looks as though late comers would not have much choice Friday. Still, things may change before then.

ONE INCH OF RAIN.

Contribution Fills Long Felt Want. Sun Out Again and Barometer Rising Steadily.

The storm seems to have spent its force. The sun was out again this morning and the barometer is rising steadily, but the weather man still sticks to storm signals, having changed today from southwest to northwest.

The rain Wednesday really amounted to something—.44 up to 6 o'clock at night and .48 since, a total of .92, or practically one inch. In view of the fact that the total fall for the previous 23 days of the month was only .10, it can be seen that this contribution filled a long felt want; but it did not fill it to overflowing, as there is plenty of room for a great deal more.

About midnight the wind shifted to the northwest and it came out clear and cool. Then it shifted again to the southeast and was there early this morning, later moving to southwest.

It is very rough outside today. Wednesday it was also rough and Block Island steamer New Shoreham went no farther than the lightship, returning here. She went across today, though the seas are high.

The only damage reported in this vicinity was a decayed limb of the old tree in front of the City Hall, which came to the sidewalk, no damage being done. Generally shipping remained in port, as the barometer gave notice of a blow. The News barometer showed a drop of 1.05 inches from Wednesday morning to this morning; now it is going upward again. The temperature today was somewhat warmer than Wednesday, the chief difference being in the early morning, though when the sun came out it became quite hot.

The rain gave the Thames Street pavement a much needed washing and it is in good condition today.

The dampness did not discourage the peat fires in the Third Street and Long Lane districts, for they are still smoking this morning. It did serve to cool the surface some, but the fire is underneath, just as it was.

STORM WARNING.

The local displayman this morning received the following special bulletin from the Weather Bureau at Washington:

Change to northwest storm warning 10:30 a. m. Brisk to high winds this afternoon and tonight, becoming northwesterly. Warnings ordered from New York to Boston.

A Question Whether Turkey Will Protest Against Exodus of Greeks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Whether Turkey can or will protest against the exodus of Greeks and their hundreds of thousands of dollars from this country, to prosecute the war in the Balkans against Turkish rule, is a question that is occupying officials here. Thus far, Turkey has offered no protest but the attitude to be assumed by the United States in the event of such a contingency has raised a delicate question. State Department officials already have given it much thought. The right of free speech is guaranteed to the Greeks in the United States so long as they keep within bounds and they can send their earnings home, if they choose, without having to explain to what purpose the money shall be put when it arrives there.

There have been no armed military expeditions leaving United States shores and under international law no breach of international peace has been committed. It is admitted, however, that the exodus of numerous bands of Greeks is for the avowed purpose of engaging in the war and the funds sent abroad are to finance the struggle. The question of whether the tacit permission of the United States to the continuation of such a condition is within the spirit of international law has raised a nice problem.

FOR GOVERNING BOUTS.

New York Officials to Fix International Standard of Weights.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—For the first time in the history of boxing in the United States an official attempt will be made by the New York state athletic commission to fix an international standard of weights to govern championship bouts in the various classes. The commission hopes to have its schedule recognized by the authorities governing the sport in England, France and Australia.

The following weight scale, drawn up by the New York commission, is now on its way to the governing bodies in the three countries named and is expected to receive their approval: Paper weight, 108 pounds; bantam weight, 115 pounds; feather weight, 125 pounds; light weight 135 pounds; welter weight 145 pounds; middle weight 158 pounds; light heavy weight or "commission weight," 175 pounds; heavy weight 175 pounds and over.

The commission, in fixing the scale, also stipulated that the various weight limits should be made at the ringside. Ringside weighing has many opponents in this country and it is believed that a modification of this rule will be agreed upon later by the international bodies concerned.

The commission schedule calls for a new class to include boxers too heavy to make 158 pounds ringside, yet too light to compete as full fledged heavy weights. The idea is to do away with contests in which a man weighing 165 pounds meets an opponent weighing 200 pounds or more.

In addition to the weights program the commission has entered into an agreement with English, French and Australian promoters by which uniform rules and penalties will be mutually recognized.

LAW EFFECTIVE IN NOVEMBER.

Army Enlistments to Cover Seven Years Instead of Four.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Adjutant General George Andrews of the army today informed recruiting officers that after November 1 all enlistments must be for a period of seven instead of four years. This is the first application to the recruiting service of the long term provision of the new law. While the full enlistment term will be seven years thereafter, only the first four years will be for actual military service. After that the soldier who does not care to re-enlist will be transferred to the army reserve without pay or allowance, but subject to recall at a moment's notice.

Rate Of Imperial Bank of Germany Raised.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—The rate of discount of the Imperial Bank of Germany was raised from 4½ to 5 per cent today.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Miss Frances O'Neill of this city is visiting Miss A. Stellman in Westerly.

—Officer Gentile has returned from his vacation and Officer Esleeck is on his.

—Mrs. Walter S. Andrews has gone to Asheville, N. C., to visit her mother, Mrs. Connally.

—Mr. E. A. Brown has returned to his place of business and says he is feeling very well.

—Mrs. Marshall Conine of New York is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Plummer, on Thurston avenue.

—Miss Frances Sullivan is spending a few days in Providence with Miss Hattie Kane of the State Normal School.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lewis of Bear Creek, Pa., have arrived at their cottage at Easton's point for the remainder of the autumn.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. Maurice Congdon, after visiting Mrs. Congdon's mother, Mrs. William Grosvenor, have returned to Providence and opened their winter residence.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman will go to the Virginia Hot Springs in November, to remain until December 10, when they will go to Providence for the winter.

—While no deed has been recorded, it is understood that Street Commissioner J. K. Sullivan is now the owner of the farm property on Harrison avenue sold by Mrs. Edith Edgar McClagg last year to Mr. T. Suffern Tailer.

—Mrs. George Gordon King, Miss Louise Ward McAllister and Miss Georgianna G. King, entertained at luncheon Wednesday. Mrs. Barger Wallach had a bridge party at "Edna Villa," and Mrs. French Vanderbilt gave a dinner at "Harbourview."

—The police report this morning was a blank so far as criminal business was concerned. Under the heading of public safety the police reported one shop door was found open and secured and one limb of a tree was reported on the highway and was attended to.

—When Jack McGee has his aeroplane tuned up again he may possibly pass over Newport. His manager is now planning for a flight in which the state capitol at Providence will be circled, and Jack says that if his motor is running right he will fly all over the state. He thinks it rather peculiar that all his mishaps occur in Pawtucket.

—Since the store in the Father Mathew building which has heretofore been used as a voting place for the Fourth ward is now occupied by a permanent tenant. It has become necessary to look for another place. It was understood that one of the stores in the new Anthony building would be used, but there has recently been a shift and it is now proposed to arrange a polling place in Cottrell's block, by the erection of certain partitions.

TO PREVENT ASSASSINATIONS.

Bills for That Purpose Fail to Pass Both Houses of Congress.

How Southern Members Make Political Campaigns—Changes in the Senate.

[Washington correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—For a few months after there has been an assassination or attempted assassination in this country there is much discussion about methods to prevent the recurrence of such crimes. And it all ends in talk. Long before anything is done the people pass on to something else and are only again aroused when there is a repetition. Congress was flooded with bills to prevent assassinations of Presidents and other public men after the tragic death of McKinley, and several measures reached the stage of debate in both houses, but the two houses could never agree upon a bill. The principal reason, when it came down to cold facts, was that certain Southern Senators feared that the laws which were proposed might interfere with the right of states to regulate their own criminal procedure.

There is one plan to prevent so much assassination and also to prevent so many murders. It is to prohibit the manufacture, sale, ownership and possession of the deadly revolvers and pistols. Of course the knife and stiletto would still be available, but most murders and assassinations are committed with revolvers. The laws and municipal ordinances against carrying concealed weapons amount to nothing. It is only after the crime has been committed that it is learned that such concealed weapons were carried by the murderer. That strong laws against these weapons have met favorable response is shown in bills which have been introduced for the purpose in Congress. Put the ban upon them, just like lottery tickets or anything else that is detrimental to the general welfare.

It took legislation to inaugurate a reform in the army which ought to have been adopted by the Secretary of War or the commanding officers of the army. This was to compel officers to return to their commands when they had been absent four years. There has been a deal of complaint and groaning about how this works detrimentally here and there where an officer is particularly fitted for detached duty, but that is mostly fudge. When an officer becomes indispensable in any place he should be retired or the place abolished. The only fault in the legislation is that it applies only to captains and lieutenants. It ought to apply to all officers.

The activities of John Bankhead, Senator from Alabama, ceased when the Baltimore convention determined that it did not want Oscar Underwood for President. Senator Bankhead has been spending much of the time since in Washington. If Underwood had been nominated Bankhead would have been chairman of the national committee.

Although it is not necessary to make a political campaign in many Southern districts, yet there are quite a number of members of Congress from that section who make the pre-election months a time for "seeing the home folks." They do very real campaign speeches are made, but these men go around and lay the wires for the next primary, when they may have a fight and when they will be in Washington. The campaign of the average Southern member is one of handshaking and is social in its character.

There are 31 Senatorial seats dependent upon the election next month, and it seems almost certain that 20 new Senators will be elected as a result of the changes which will be made. That is very extraordinary, for usually not more than a dozen seats are filled by new men every two years. If the Democratic contentions are right the changes will be nearer 25 than 20.

It is said that many Senators and Representatives who are candidates for re-election, and even those who may be candidates at some future time, are devoting most of their time to their home affairs. They are not going about the country speaking generally for the national tickets as in former Presidential years. "It's a good time to keep close to home base," one of them remarked who made a flying trip to the national capital for supplies.

It is rather strange how corporations take care of themselves, isn't it? There is pending in Congress legislation which is believed to be averse or severe upon corporations in the District of Columbia. And meanwhile these corporations are taking advantage of the delay to tie things up by careful organization so that the legislation will not bother them when it is passed.

AT CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES.

Delinquent Children and Housing Problem Considered in Haverhill.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 24.—Delinquent children and the housing problem were matters discussed at the ninth Massachusetts State Conference of Charities here today. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., of Boston, was chairman of the session which considered housing. The announcement speakers were Carol Aronovici, director of Bureau of Social Research, Providence, R. I., on "Studying housing conditions"; Charles S. Ackerman of Boston on "The real objects of town housing laws and their supporters," and Frederick C. Howe, director of the people's institute, New York, on "The foundations of the housing problem." Edwin Mulready, Massachusetts state deputy commissioner of probation, presided at the session in which "The delinquent" was the topic. The program included addresses by William R. George, founder and director of George Junior Republic, Freeville, N. Y., on "The delinquent child and education"; Mrs. Julius Andrews president of the Boston council of Jewish women on "The delinquent child and home training," and Rev. John J. McCoy, rector of St. Agnes Church, Worcester, on "Delinquency, a community problem."

ROOSEVELT GAINING STRENGTH.

Patient in Excellent Condition After a Long Night's Rest.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Colonel Roosevelt was still in seclusion today, but was gaining strength so rapidly that it was expected he would soon be permitted to resume the work of the campaign. Dr. Searry Terrell, who is staying at the home of W. E. Roosevelt, near Sagamore Hill, visited Colonel Roosevelt this morning and found the patient in excellent condition after a long night's sleep. The colonel walked about the house more freely than at any previous time since his return. He felt no pain, although whenever he raised his right arm or breathed deeply he was reminded of his injury by the grating of the ends of the fractured rib. It probably will be several weeks before he will have full use of his right arm. Colonel Roosevelt expected to see a few visitors today and to begin preparations for the speech he hopes to deliver in New York.

prisoner's wife was in the first row of spectators' seats at 10 o'clock. At 10:25 Becker entered the room, smiling. John F. McIntyre and John H. Hart, Becker's lawyers, chatted and laughed with him at their table. "I'm feeling fine," Becker said, smiling at a reporter whom he recognized.

Justice Goff began his charge at 10:40 o'clock. He spoke almost in a whisper and the jurors leaned forward in their seats to hear him.

After instructing the jury that the defendant must be presumed innocent until it was proven beyond a reasonable doubt that he was guilty, Justice Goff defined the different degrees of murder. "The killing of a human being," he said, "can be considered as murder, manslaughter and excusable homicide. There can be no verdict of excusable homicide and I will not consider that phase. This man's case rests solely with you, but in making your decision you must be guided entirely by the evidence and not by remarks of counsel."

Justice Goff warned the jury not to consider questions of counsel to which witnesses were not permitted to reply. "The testimony of each witness," he said, "must be tested by your judgment. You may reject or accept any part of the testimony of any witness whose sincerity you doubt, and you may also consider his manner of replying to questions, his hesitancy or readiness and his capacity for observation.

"Murder in the first degree," the justice explained, "is done with intent and deliberate design to kill, and in the second degree without premeditation. It is not necessary," he said, "that I should dwell at length on the definition of murder in the second degree.

"First, in the latter part of June, Becker told Webber he wanted Rosenthal killed; secondly, he followed this with instructions to Rose to have Rosenthal killed; thirdly, Rose, following out these instructions, carried out the design of the defendant. That sums up the state's case. If you find that it has been proven, you must return a verdict of murder in the first degree. The prosecution must have proved this clearly and beyond reasonable doubt, before you can find such a verdict."

Justice Goff cited cases in which superior courts held that it was not necessary for the defendant to have seen the act of murder committed to establish his guilt. "It remains," Justice Goff said, "for you to determine whether Becker designed and premeditated the murder of Rosenthal. If you find that he had time to re-consider his design, but did not re-consider, that shows design on his part.

"It is not necessary for you to go into the evidence of premeditation. The state contends that the defendant in the latter part of June expressed a desire to have Rosenthal killed, which continued until and culminated in Rosenthal's death. If the defendant repeated these desires to Jack Rose, that constituted premeditation."

Justice Goff asked Mr. McIntyre if he should define manslaughter to the jury. "We have no such request," Becker's lawyer replied, and the court omitted the definition.

"It matters not," the justice resumed, "whether the hand that killed Rosenthal was the hand of Becker or not. If you find that Becker gave instructions to Rose that resulted in Rosenthal's death, then Becker is guilty of murder in the first degree."

Justice Goff read to the jury what he termed "a brief skeleton" of the evidence adduced by the state. He summed it up in chronological order, from the first complaint against Rosenthal's gambling house in March to the arrest of the defendant, and included all the evidence given by Jack Rose, Bridgie Webber, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps. He narrated in detail Becker's movements on the night of the murder as testified to by witnesses.

"I instruct you," said the justice in concluding his reading, "that the events referred to in this recital of the state's case do not exclude from your consideration any other events which come within the scope of the evidence. It is not plain why the gunmen killed Rosenthal at Becker's command."

Justice Goff then read the statute governing the testimony of accomplices and told the jury that every person who aided, attended or participated in any way must be considered an accomplice. "There is no question that Rose, Webber and Vallon were Becker's accomplices," he continued. "As to Schepps, there is a question. I must say that I am in doubt on this point myself, and therefore I decline to instruct you that he was an accomplice. You must determine that yourselves. There is a suspicion that he was; but suspicion is not proof."

WERE IN GOOD CONDITION.

Train Wreck at Westport, Conn., Not Due to Rotten Ties.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 24.—Denial of allegations that rotten ties caused the wreck at Westport October 3, in which several lives were lost, is given in the following statement issued here by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

"The track was inspected by the inspector of safety appliances of the Interstate Commerce Commission and by the engineer of the public utilities commission of the state of Connecticut immediately after the wreck and pronounced in good condition.

"The renewal of ties for the season was in progress and had been nearly completed and but few ties marked for replacement remained in the track at the time of the wreck, and none of these was in the crossover traversed by the wrecked train.

"This is the normal condition obtaining on the best maintained railroads in the United States and the existence of such ties in the track did not and could not affect the safety of operation.

"The ties in question were from 600 to 800 feet west of the wreck and were not involved, or in any way related to it.

"The fact that the track in the vicinity of the crossover and the crossover itself had been used continuously since the accident, without any changes having been made in it, shows the good condition of the tracks and speaks for itself."

NEGRO WAITERS IN SERVICE.

Washington Hotels and Cafes Guarded on Account of the Strike.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Principal hotels and cafes were guarded by police today, as one of the first developments in the waiters' strike which began last night. Places of the strikers had been partially filled today and the old time negro waiter, who was one of the attractions of the capital a generation ago, came back into service again. The hotel managers say sufficient strike breakers are on their way from New York.

TAFT'S FOREIGN POLICY APPLAUDED.

ed its friendship for China and won the regard of the people of that vast nation. No man is more keenly alive than President Taft to the responsibilities and rights of our position among the nations with interests in the Far East.

"In the sphere of practical peace measures during President Taft's administration the policy of this government has actually prevented or stopped three or four wars, to say nothing of the benign influence of 'dollar diplomacy' as expressed in the Nicaraguan and Honduran conventions. The conventions unfortunately met much the same opposition as the great arbitration treaties and remain unacted upon. One result has been the recently bloody warfare in Nicaragua that the influence of the United States has now been able to bring to a close. These more idealistic phases of our diplomacy should, I think, make special appeal. The materialistic appeal to all our industries and producers of every sort who share in the prosperity of the country is too evident further to dwell upon."

ENORMOUS LOSSES SUFFERED.

Turks Defeat Servian Army Operating Near Kumanova.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 24.—The Servian army operating near Kumanova has been defeated by the Turkish troops defending that town and is on the way to Uskup. The Servians suffered enormous losses, according to an official despatch from the commander-in-chief of the Turkish western army. The Turkish troops are pursuing them energetically. The Servian army is believed to have comprised four strong divisions.

DESPERATE FIGHTING GOING ON.

Part of the Turkish Town of Kumanova Seized by Servians.

BELGRADE, Oct. 24.—The Servian troops have captured one part of the Turkish town of Kumanova, according to a telephone message received from Veranya this morning. The Turkish artillery was soon silenced by the Servian guns. Desperate fighting is still going on in the vicinity of Kumanova.

The taking of the Turkish town of Novipazar was achieved only after three days' severe fighting during which there was much slaughter both among the Servians and the Turks. The small town of Strazin, between Egri-Palanka and Kumanova, was captured yesterday by the Servians.

CAPTURED BY BULGARIANS.

Kirk Kilisseh Opens Way to Advance on Adrianople.

SOFIA, Oct. 24.—Kirk Kilisseh has been captured by the Bulgarian army, which has been fighting against the Turkish troops in the vicinity for several days. The possession of the fortress opens the way to a Bulgarian advance on Adrianople.

KEY TO ADRIANOPLE.

The Turkish Fortress of Kirk Kilisseh Reported as Fallen.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Turkish fortress of Kirk Kilisseh has fallen, according to a news agency despatch from Sofia. It is regarded as the key to Adrianople and is the headquarters of the Turkish third army corps commanded by Kenaan Pascha.

LONDON AWAITS NEWS.

Bulgarian Had Advantage of Occupying Heights at Kirk Kilisseh.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—While the Balkan nations and Turkey are all generous with official statements as to the progress of the war in other parts of European Turkey, they maintain complete silence in regard to the great battle which has been raging for the last two days between Adrianople and Kirk Kilisseh, for news of which all the world is waiting. The reports issued from the opposing sides as to the other battles show grave discrepancies. As to the main event near Adrianople what has been published up to the present is largely supposition.

British military officers who for many years have made a specialty of studying the Balkan military preparations lean to the belief that the Turkish army has been holding the line between Adrianople and Kirk Kilisseh with a covering force, estimated at about 70,000 men, and the main Ottoman army is only just due on the scene.

These same army critics say the Bulgarian army has the advantage of occupying rising ground at Kirk Kilisseh, and the Turks must have their full force in order to dislodge them. Another fierce encounter is in progress around Kumanova on the way to Uskup, where both Servians and Turks claim the victory. Other indications than the Turkish report show that the Servians have suffered severely.

A call was issued today at Belgrade for all retired and reserve officers as well as military employes, lawyers and engineers, to join the Seventh Servian regiment, the crack corps of Belgrade, within 48 hours. Some doubts are expressed in Belgrade whether the cartridge factories in Servia will be able to issue cartridges fast enough to supply the needs of the hard-fighting troops. There has also been some severe fighting in the Struma valley, where again both sides claim the victory. For the time being operations have slackened in the Novipazar district, where the Servians and Montenegrins are attempting to advance.

The capture of the town of Novipazar by the Servian troops advances this object considerably, but the troops who have passed through a terrific battle must be allowed some rest.

The Greeks also for the moment appear to be satisfied with the capture of the Turkish town of Servia, although their cavalry is pursuing the retiring Turks through the valley of Aliamon. The Montenegrins who have been waiting for some time are apparently prepared now to make a great effort to secure possession of the Turkish stronghold of Scutari. While General Martinovitch is bombarding Tarakosch, Princess Danilo and Mirsky are putting their armies in order for a general advance.

VISCOUNT PEEL DEAD.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Viscount Peel, who was speaker of the House of Commons from 1884 to 1895, died today at the age of 83. He was created a viscount on his retirement from the speakership. He was chairman of the British commission to the St. Louis exposition.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper at 66½, American Beet Sugar 70, American Cotton Oil 57, American Smelting and Refining 83¾, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 107¾, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 89¾, Canadian Pacific 261¼, Chesapeake & Ohio 81, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul 110, Erie 34¾, Great Northern preferred 130¾, Interborough Metropolitan 19¾, Interborough Metropolitan preferred 64¾, Missouri Pacific 43, New York Central 114¾, Northern Pacific 123¾, Pennsylvania 122¾, Reading 171½, Rock Island 25¾, Southern Pacific 109¾, Southern Railway 28½, Union Pacific 169¾, United States Steel 76¾, Lehigh Valley 173¾.

10—The movement of prices at the opening of today's stock market reflected further irregularity. Hill issues and Canadian Pacific were down from a fraction to a full point, while Amalgamated, Smelting, Steel and a few other active issues recorded slight gains. Trading was moderate.

11—The tone of the market in the first hour suggested further uncertainty, with increasing bearish sentiment. Republic Iron and Bethlehem Steel were among the few strong issues.

Noon—Stocks moved narrowly in the early part of the day's market session. Trading was again very light, with a preponderance of bearish sentiment among the professional element. The advance in the German discount rate, while in no sense surprising, served as another reminder of the tense foreign financial situation. Markets abroad reflected extreme caution, with Americans generally lower in London. Hill issues were heaviest of the representative issues here, other speculative stocks fluctuating moderately. Money holds firm, with slight recession in the opening for call loans. Bonds were steady. Money on call, firm, at 4½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. Exchanges, $378,028,624; balances, $25,521,524.

Herbert Rose of That Place and Thomas Winn of Gloucester, Mass., the Victims.

Herbert Rose of Block Island and Thomas Winn of Gloucester were lost off Southeast point, Block Island, Wednesday morning, when their auxiliary catboat Castle went aground on the point. It is supposed by those who went out to the rescue that there was a gasoline explosion on the boat previous to the grounding, and the two men were probably burned and so unable to handle the craft.

Rose, who owned the boat, was about 27 years old, married, a native of Block Island and well known in this city. Winn, aged about 65, was an old Gloucester fisherman and also known here. He had been with Rose only a few days. The Castle had but just finished her fall overhauling at Williams & Manchester's shop and was in fine condition, leaving here Monday for the island.

The boat left the old harbor early to fish, and nothing more was heard of her until she was seen at the point, beating to pieces in the heavy surf. The two men were not found, and perhaps they had jumped overboard. It was very rough off Block Island, and everywhere at sea, Wednesday, and there is a chance that the working of the boat loosened the gasoline feed pipe. The motor was in the cabin and thus the chances of an accident from the leakage of gasoline were greater than had it been under the cockpit floor, the usual place in fishing boats.

RED MEN ENTERTAIN.

Weenat Shassit Tribe Visited by the Ninigret of Wickford and Adopts Palefaces.

Weenat Shassit Tribe of Red Men had as guests Wednesday evening about 25 members of Ninigret Tribe of Wickford, together with two palefaces. The strangers would have been much stronger in number had it not been for the inclement weather and would have brought more candidates. The visit was for the purpose of having the tribe here adopt the palefaces and that the Wickford members might have an opportunity to see the work of the Newport degree team. The tribe across the bay was instituted and its original members were worked by teams from Newport a few years ago, and it was desired to see the work again.

In addition there were brief talks, and Frasch served a supper in the dining hall, comprising frankfurters and rolls, sardines and saltines, pickles and olives, potato salad, home-made doughnuts, coffee, cigars and cigarettes. After the supper the party returned to the lodge room, where cards were played and there was music until it was time to go to the General to take the last trip back to Wickford.

FOR OPERATING SUBMARINES.

New Rules Issued by Acting Secretary Winthrop to Restrict Diving Depths.

New rules for the operation of submarines have been issued by Acting Secretary of the Navy Beekman Winthrop, because of the frequent accidents to foreign submarines. It has been decided that the safe depth to which a submarine can be submerged is about 100 feet, and although a record of more than 200 feet has been established by submarine F-1 on the west coast the Secretary of the Navy has decided to restrict their diving depths. The rules say:

"No submarine shall exercise singly without leaving a full knowledge of her proposed movements, so that she can be followed if necessary. When submarines are exercising the manoeuvring boat shall be accompanied by a tender or launch, and when exercising with an inexperienced personnel the work of submarines shall be conducted in comparatively shoal water.

"They shall not be exercised at greater depths than actually needed in time of war, and under no circumstances will boats of class A be allowed to be submerged more than 60 feet or boats or the B class to a depth or more than 100 feet.

"The permission of the department must be obtained before submerging submarines in commission, voluntarily, to depths greater than above limits. In every instance where the above limits are exceeded, report in full of all attendant circumstances will be made to the department."

THE PETERSEN-ANDERSON WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Anderson, daughter of Mrs. John Anderson of Fall River, and Mr. John Frederick Petersen, son of Carl Petersen of this city, was performed Tuesday at the home of the bride, by Rev. Linden H. White, rector of St. James church, in the presence of relatives and friends. The bride was attended by Miss Lily Petersen, a sister of the groom, and Mr. Charles W. Anderson, a brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride was attired in a gown of white embroidered net over satin and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was attractively gowned in white embroidery, and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor of the bride's home, which was prettily decorated, and the couple stood under a handsome arch of autumn leaves, cut flowers and potted palms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding luncheon served. The bridal couple received numerous handsome and useful gifts.

NEW HAVEN ROAD'S PLANS.

Electrification and Four-Tracking Between Boston and Providence.

Mellen Says That One Accident Occurs in Three Million Cross-Over Movements.

Stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company Wednesday re-elected the present board of 27 directors and ratified a resolution approving the agreement between the company and the Boston & Providence and the Old Colony roads for the elimination of grade crossings, the four-tracking and electrification of the road between Boston and Providence, and the raising of $8,000,000 to pay the same.

After several questions had been answered by Mr. Mellen as to the company's finances, he said that he had seen criticism of the management. He wished to emphasize one of the trials of running a road through a "highly civilized community," such as that from Boston to New York. From January 1, 1909, to October 15, 1912, 149 obstructions had been placed on the rails between Boston and New York, equal to about one every 12 days. Since January 1 last, 41 obstructions had been reported.

President Mellen also said that the road had been criticised because it had not adopted the recommendations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, following the Bridgeport wreck, and through which, if the road had done so, the disaster at Westport might have been averted. He said the facts were that at the Bridgeport wreck an inspector made a report with certain recommendations. The Interstate Commerce Commission had never made a report on those recommendations, and the commission has never made any suggestion to the company.

Mr. Mellen said a great deal is being said about cross-over accidents. The road's record shows that 867 cross-over movements occur each day on the line between Boston and New York and one accident comes in every three million cross-over movements. No automatic device of which he knew shows a better margin of safety to a train than that obtained when an employe observes the rules of the company.

In regard to segregation of steamship properties President Mellen said that it is not the intention of the company to dispose of them if this can be avoided. Under the Panama Canal bill there appears to be a way by which control can be retained, and they are to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for assistance in carrying out the plan. Many of the steamship lines were established as extensions of the steam lines, and some have been a part of the system for 70 years. They were not properties acquired to stifle competition, but to extend transportation facilities.

IN THE NAVY YARDS.

The Connecticut Needing New Shaft for Propeller and the Nebraska Many Repairs.

When the huge propellers of battleship Connecticut were removed Wednesday in the New York navy yard dry dock it was discovered that one of the tail shafts which joins the propeller to the main shaft had been badly cracked. The Navy Department was informed of the matter and at once placed an order for a new one with the Bethlehem Steel Company. The new shaft will cost between $5,000 and $6,000 and cannot be delivered for almost two months. During this time the Connecticut will be tied at the navy yard.

Captain Hugh Rodman, commanding officer of the Connecticut, reported to the department that he was unable to say when the crack occurred and what had caused it. One theory is that the full-powered tests and the manoeuvres in which the ship has recently taken part proved too great a strain. Last August one of the crank shafts of the Connecticut was broken and for several weeks she was disabled.

It is thought probable that the accident will hasten the transfer of the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, from flagship Connecticut, to the new battleship Wyoming, which has been fitted up as an independent flagship.

Battleship Nebraska is found to be in much more serious condition than was supposed when it was reported that she be allowed to undergo repairs until the first of November. It now looks as if she would not come out of the navy yard before it is time for her to leave with the fleet in January for Guantanamo. Last summer she found a forgotten shoal off Point Judith and had a few plates dented, and before the review while on her way for steaming trial she suffered a blowing out of boiler tubes. Right after the review she went to the Boston yard and it was found that considerable work could be done about her engines. In starting this work it has been discovered that the starboard intermediate crank pin is cracked and it is not safe to use the starboard engines except at low power. It is deemed advisable that the ship now be allowed to remain at the yard until the engines can be put in thorough repair, and this probably will keep her from joining the other ships at Hampton Roads for the drill which is to precede the holiday lay-up in the home yards.

Indications are that the navy proposes to keep ships on the Mexican coast for some time. Those which have been sent there because of the troubled conditions in the country are to be supplied by collier Brutus, which has been ordered from Key West to Guantanamo to take on coal and stores for the ships now in Mexican waters.

RE-BUILDING FISHING SLOOP ROB ROY.

Fishing sloop Rob Roy is hauled out at Williams & Manchester's for a rebuilding of her interior. She has recently been purchased from Maine by John Papa, who is to use her for fishing. She was equipped with an 8-horse-power motor but her new owner has secured a 16-horse-power Lathrop from James T. O'Connell and will have it placed in her. The cabin and cockpit fittings have been torn out and the boat so far as interior fittings are concerned will be entirely new when she goes to sea. She is of 7 tons burden, was built at Friendship, Maine, and is an able-looking keel craft.

HAZARD CASE CLOSED.

Testimony from Both Sides Showing Relations Between Husband and Wife.

The case of Hazard vs. Hazard, a petition for separate maintenance, proceeded in the superior court, before Judge Baker, Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Hazard resuming the stand. After the boy was four years old Mrs. Hazard did not allow him to go out with his father. When they were together, and she was absent, they enjoyed it immensely. The boy once wrote him not to come to see him at Providence; it would not be pleasant, as the mother was there.

In cross-examination Mr. Hazard read a list of many sums, large and small, given the son. The son said he would use some of it for his mother. Some was given without being asked. They totalled more than $90. He also paid $4 to the Young Men's Christian Association for a vacation for the boy, which he was allowed to enjoy, as witness's name was not divulged in connection with it.

After this something occurred which gave witness a setback, and for months relations between them were severed. Did not send any money, clothing or supplies to Mrs. Hazard. Thought what he gave the son would be so much less he would have to pay.

The policies in favor of the son were originally in favor of Mrs. Hazard. He paid $378.42 premiums in the last year.

If he had had proper home treatment he would have had no occasion to go away. He did not wish to go and there was no reason why he should go. Mr. Holt and Mrs. Hazard asked him to sign a paper and while he was away Mr. Holt was appointed his guardian. At his own request he was allowed to return. His wife said: "You don't want to go to work in a hurry." He said: "I want my guardianship removed." He was advised to go west and was told he had money enough to go. He went. Wrote his wife 13 times and received no replies.

In the West he had an opportunity to do good business, but the guardianship interfered. Some years later he was again in the institution, committed there. When he came out he did not intend to return to Newport. His guardian called him here to settle business matters.

This summer Mrs. Hazard has been going to the beach and about. For many years she has refused to be his wife in any sense. Has not been to see her since 1905.

William P. Carr testified. He was guardian in 1907. Wrote to Mr. Hazard that Mrs. Hazard said she did not wish Mr. Hazard to come to Newport any more. She told witness she did not wish him released and she could not have him at her house. He was then securing his release. Property was sold at mortgagee's sale. Mrs. Hazard claimed all the proceeds; she objected to Mr. Hazard having any of it. She certainly impressed witness as being opposed to Mr. Hazard's return. She was emphatic about that.

Rev. Charles A. Stenhouse, former pastor of Mrs. Hazard, told of an incident in 1905. Mr. Hazard called and asked him to use his influence to bring about a reconciliation with Mrs. Hazard. He was so urgent that witness went. Mrs. Hazard was in bed. There was no scene. All were dignified and calm. Mr. Hazard was eager and his face lighted up. He seemed almost happy. She was less responsive.

Witness especially urged consideration for the boy, Mr. Hazard being anxious for a proper home for the boy with his father and mother. Mrs. Hazard was hesitant; did not seem convinced and did not wish to make any definite reply then. Mr. Hazard made no charges against her. Saw nothing irrational in him. Thinks Mr. Hazard made no such statement as: "I now revoke all charges against Mrs. Hazard; they are untrue." Witness was not sanguine that the reconciliation had been effected.

When he called, Mrs. Hazard had said: "My husband is up stairs." From the fact that Mr. Hazard was occupying another part of the house, and from an incident at the house, witness had the idea that the estrangement had been quite pronounced.

Here Mr. MacLeod rested.

Mrs. Hazard was recalled. Up to 1901, when he went away, Mr. Hazard was very devoted. Nothing better could be asked. All was very happy.

Mr. Sullivan spoke of the deposition of the son in Michigan. The son has answered the direct questions, but cross-interrogations have not been answered. Mr. MacLeod said it looked as if this were intentional. It was agreed that the hearing be continued, to see if answers to the cross interrogations are sent. If so, Mr. Hazard may rebut. Otherwise the case is closed.

At 3:45 the court adjourned to 9:30 A. M. Thursday.

LEANDER A. PECKHAM.

Death of a Former Business Man. More Recently a Traveling Salesman.

Mr. Leander A. Peckham died Wednesday afternoon at the Newport Hospital, after a long illness. He was a son of Mrs. Patience Peckham and was born in Newport, living here until he was a young man. For several years he was employed as a photographer, learning the business with Ludovici and later conducting a studio of his own. He was actively interested in athletics and a well known bicyclist.

Later he went to California, where he was in business several years, returning to Newport about 10 years ago, having recently been employed as a traveling salesman for a Providence firm. He is survived by his mother and a sister, Miss Esther S. Peckham.

"MR. SHEFFIELD'S CANDIDACY."

To the Editor of The News:

"Consistency, thou art a jewel." If memory serves me right, at the last contest in this Congressional district, you, in an editorial advocated the election of Mr. Sheffield, partly at least, on the ground that the House being Republican, Mr. O'Shaunessy if elected would be at such a disadvantage as to be of little or no use in the House, and Newport's interests, especially in regard to naval affairs, would suffer thereby. I think I can go even a step further and say that The Daily News has used this line of argument on other occasions.

The present House being Democratic, with a very strong probability of its remaining so, is it not just pertinent to suggest that along your line of argument the proper man to send to Congress at this time is Mr. O'Shaunessy, as with such odds against him Mr. Sheffield would scarcely be able to accomplish much?

On the other hand, fairness compels me to say that I believe Mr. O'Shaunessy is the proper man to send at this time. The interests of Newport along the very lines you speak of make it of the utmost importance that he should be returned to Washington, to complete his work towards making this America's great naval centre.

OUT TO DEFEAT BEECKMAN.

Dresser Welcomes Investigation of His Wall Street Record.

Asks the Senator to Answer Certain Questions—Rev. Mr. Hanscom Also Speaks.

The weekly meeting of the Progressive party Wednesday evening was not very well attended, as most people naturally did not venture out in the storm. With an audience of about 25 present Mr. Dresser decided to call the gathering to order at 8:15, the usual hour, and as the evening advanced a few more dropped in.

This time Mr. Dresser had a good deal to say about Mr. Beeckman, the Republican candidate for senator. He declared that he was out to defeat Mr. Beeckman in this campaign and said the latter had threatened to expose his (Mr. Dresser's) record in Wall street in 1903, if the speaker continued his efforts against his candidacy. "I assume that Mr. Beeckman means by my record, my fight against the big Wall Street crooks," said Mr. Dresser. "I did finish that fight and fought it to a finish, until they finally drove me into bankruptcy. But I fought them all through my bankruptcy, until the men I was after were driven from the big life insurance companies, and then I received my discharge in bankruptcy, which was unanimous by all my creditors."

If Mr. Beeckman wishes to go into this matter Mr. Dresser said he was willing, adding that he would gladly place at the former's disposal his scrap books. However, if Mr. Beeckman intends to take up this matter, he will need to start a printing press, for the testimony was in the newspapers for many months and covers thousands of pages in the law records of New York.

Dropping that subject, Mr. Dresser proceeded to ask a few questions for Mr. Beeckman to answer. First, he would like to know what Mr. Beeckman knew about the 87 blank votes at the time Mr. Maher ran against him in the Fourth district; also, if he considered it decent on election day, when the law forbids the sale of liquor, to open a hall and give it away; also, what happened in the Sherman place, across from the polls, when men went in there and returned to vote.

The other speaker of the evening was Rev. Frank L. Hanscom of Providence, who was heard in Newport during the Men and Religion campaign. He said he came from the West, and from what he had observed all the young men out there, who are alive to the situation, are Progressives. He characterized Roosevelt as the only man who can carry the party to victory at this time. He said Roosevelt when President started many things for the benefit of the nation, but all these principles have dropped out of sight under Taft's administration.

Rev. Mr. Hanscom reviewed the advance of the government from the beginning and said the Republican party is coming to an end, the same as the Democrats did years ago, because of the Progressive movement. The Chicago convention, he said, showed plainly that the Republicans are controlled by the vested interests of Wall street. Before closing, he touched upon many points in the Progressive platform—the tariff, the minimum wage scale for women, fairness and justice to the wage owner, the initiative and referendum, direct primaries, the election of Senators by the people and the recall.

Mr. Dresser again took the floor after Mr. Hanscom had finished and spoke for some time.

FOR ANNUAL INSPECTION.

Civil War Veterans Gather at Quarters, But Expected Visitors Fail to Arrive.

A score of veterans of the Civil war, many of them now lame or infirm, braved the elements Wednesday evening for the purpose of gathering at their quarters for the annual inspection by Department Commander Thomas M. Holden and staff of Providence. The visitors did not arrive, though they were expected until after 9 o'clock.

The program which had been arranged by the entertainment committee was carried out so far as possible and included remarks by a number of guests, a musical program and the serving of sandwiches and coffee. Ice cream and cake by Frasch. Clark's orchestra furnished instrumental music and Singing Master Rankin of the Training Station led the singing of the war-time songs. Past Department Commander McMahon as chairman of the committee presided.

Among those present was Captain James Hubbard of the Providence fire department, just placed on the retired list, who proposes to return to Newport to reside after an absence of three score years. He, Commander Oliver W. Huntington of the Sons of Veterans and others made remarks upon prisons of the Civil war.

BISCUIT COMPANY MOVING.

The National Biscuit Company is moving from Long wharf to the Perrett building on Thames street, until such time as the new storehouse and office building on Elm street at the railroad tracks is ready. The lease for the present site has a few days to run and Armour is not anxious to take possession just at present, so that the office might have remained another month, but it was thought best to move in good weather. The location of the office is not important as the business is done by personal calls and telephone. The plan is to move the building now occupied by the Biscuit Company to the vacant lot on Long wharf, just to the east. It was also planned to move the old Barker storehouse, recently on fire, to the same location.

LOBSTER SEASON ABOUT ENDED.

Fishermen Had Their Outside Pots Stored Away Before the Storm Broke.

The outside lobster fishery is over for the season. The Greeks have gradually been bringing in such pots as had escaped the waves of the summer and storing them away, and they were all in before Wednesday's storm struck. Some fishermen have pots off Narragansett Pier, Point Judith and Sakonnet Point, and of course in the bay they are still fishing. It was just as well they had the off-shore pots in before the blow came, for it would have finished what was left.

Owing to the falling off in the catch, M. Harrington, who had charge of H. McGinn's wholesale lobster house here, has closed it and gone to Boston for the winter. The lobster season is in its last stages, but they are still bringing some in. It will close officially November 15.

The closing of McGinn's shop led to the opening of a new wholesale fish-house. Captain Bill Luth, late of the Clara T., and John Mack are the proprietors and they seem to be having all the assistance the Hatchet Club can give on off times. Also, they have begun to accumulate a supply of tautog.

CONGRESSMAN UTTER ILL.

Congressman George H. Utter is at the Providence Hospital in Washington, where an operation was performed Wednesday. At midnight the attending physician reported that he was resting comfortably and doing well.

Congressman Utter has been suffering from stomach trouble for some time. His condition became so much worse about 10 days ago that it was decided that an operation would be necessary to relieve him. Last week he went to Washington and entered the hospital, where special attention is given to such cases.

The operation, for the removal of gall stones, was performed Wednesday, his son, Dr. Henry E. Utter of the Rhode Island Hospital staff, assisting, and it was reported that it had been successful and that his condition was satisfactory. He is expected to be about in a few days, although he will not be able to take any active part in the present campaign.

GENERAL ABBOT'S ILLNESS.

The condition of Adjutant General Charles W. Abbot, who has been ill at his home for the past week, reached a serious stage early Wednesday morning, when he suffered a relapse. He rallied strongly to medical aid, and in the afternoon the attending physician said General Abbot was resting comfortably. The ailment, from which he has been a frequent sufferer, was contracted several years ago, while he was in the Philippines.

LAST VOYAGE OF THE OLD FRIGATE HARTFORD.

The old wooden frigate Hartford, Admiral Farragut's flagship at Mobile Bay and New Orleans, is announced to leave the Naval Academy Friday morning for Charleston, where she will be the station ship. She will be commanded by Commander N. E. Irwin, and will stop at Norfolk about a week. For a number of years she has been used for the instruction of the midshipmen in practical seamanship. It is understood that this will be her last voyage.
